

March 8, INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

INTERNATIONAL FEDERATION OF WOMEN OF LEGAL CAREERS

Another International Women's Day!

On this date we are still doing our best for the rights of women and girls, because they are especially at risk across the globe. They continue to be war trophies, raped and trafficked, and many continue to flee from hunger and poverty in their home countries and disrespected in asylums or refugee centers, separated from their children or parents and with an uncertain future.

Many women and girls continue to suffer from wars, discriminatory laws and policies, harmful cultural practices and natural calamities, and in many cases. they can not avoid neither suffering nor death.

We are all in line with the great effort made by the United Nations to ensure that the rights of women and girls are effectively respected so that the rights of women and girls change from discourse to practice and they can live in secure societies and where their freedom is respected .

As women lawyers, we call on us to continue working in our countries to make social protection systems more inclusive and supportive for women and girls, for better education, health and access to justice services, safe public transport and decent and law and public policies environmentally friendly and adequate infrastructure.

On this day, I want to congratulate women on their unceasing struggles and sacrifices for human survival and a world of peace.

For the good of all women, I call for unity and solidarity among them!
